About us

The queer youth group PRISM was founded in 2018 at the „Haus der Jugend“ (youth center) by dedicated young queers and a fulltime employee.

PRISM stands for an open and respectful atmosphere, where you can fully be yourself. We take diversity very seriously: no matter what your sexual orientation might be, how you live out your gender identity or what your gender expression (the way you present yourself on the outside) might look like, you're accepted. We’ll welcome you just as you are.

It is important to us us that PRISM is a nondiscriminatory space. All queer people should feel safe here – without fear of exclusion, stigmatization or bullying.

QUEERE Jugendbildung

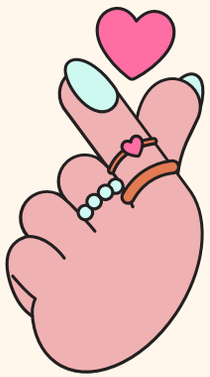
What is PRISM?

PRISM is an open and cost-free social gathering to meet people and provides a nondiscriminatory space for queer teenagers and young adults.

Allies and everyone who isn't quite sure and/or doesn't wan't to use a specific label for themselves are welcome too.

We celebrate diversity, individuality and equality of all people.

As a youth organisation PRISM is a member of the „Stadtjugendring" (city youth council) and it receives support from the youth development program of the Office for Youth, Family, and Women.



Who is PRISM for?

We invite queer teens and young adults (and those who are still figuring things out) between the ages of 14 and 27 – whether you've been here before or are brand new.

It can be hard to walk into new spaces with other people. Feel free to reach out to us in advance if there's anything that could make your visit with us easier. If you like, you can also stop by a little earlier so we can show you around at your own pace and chat a bit.

Here's what to expect

First, there's time to settle in and relax. If it's your first time here, we're happy to show you around the Haus der Jugend and tell you a little bit about the group. Then we'll sit down together and introduce ourselves using our chosen names and pronouns (in other words, how you'd like to be addressed).

After the introductions, there's usually an activity, such as crafts, painting, games, or a presentation.

During the meet-up, you always have the chance to chat with people, listen to music, and play board games, pool, table-soccer, and more. Just want to chill and hang out? That's totally fine, everything is optional!

At the end, we'll clean up together and then say goodbye and head out.
